

"BIG FIVE" PACKERS
MAY BE SHUT OUT

Mississippi Revenue Agent Asks That $5000 a Day Be Fixed as Penalty.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 28.—Perpetual injunction against the "Big Five" packers is sought in a petition filed here this morning in Hinds County Chancery Court by State Revenue Agent Stokes V. Robertson. The injunction would forever bar the packers from doing business in Mississippi.

Violation of state anti-trust laws is charged and the court is asked to fix the statutory penalty of $500 a day during the life of the alleged combine, which would total millions of dollars. It is charged that the defendants control the food products of the United States—not only meats, but on nearly every other important commodity, fixing prices and controlling outputs as if under one management, there being no competition anywhere, and they are constantly reaching out and broadening the scope of their activities by taking over additional commodities and necessities of life, so that prices of the many goods they handle and control are fixed and not controlled by the laws of supply and demand.

The revenue agent is represented by Mayers & Potter, J. N. Flowers and E. H. Cooper.

FORGING AHEAD.

What are we doing in the port of Pascagoula for the future welfare of our children and grandchildren? Well, we are building paved streets, laying sewer pipes, constructing public docks, erecting houses and boosting oil lands. Any thing else? Why, yes, we are building numbers of steel ships to carry the timber products of Jackson and adjacent counties to European and Asiatic parts. All right, but are you developing your natural resources by encouraging capital to invest in manufacturing? Indeed, we are conducting a campaign of publicity and thrift that should bring about substantial returns. Our programme includes a seaside hotel, a commercial hotel, an apartment house, cotton warehouse, ice plant, creamery, sash and blind factory, brick and tile works, cannery and many small industries. Last, but not least, a boy's academy—Optimist.

MODERN SHIP WAYS.

The Gulf Ship Company, formerly the Freutz Ship Yard, has established modern ship ways on this admirable site on the river north of the Dierks Blodgett ship yard. Two large lighters are under construction and the splendid schooners W. S. M. Bentley and Susie B. Dentler are undergoing general repairs simultaneously. Capt. H. H. Cole, the efficient superintendent, is inviting a large patronage to our port because of his close attention to business.

Labor Day will be appropriately celebrated Monday, September 1. The various local organizations will celebrate at the Beach Park.

The fellow who originated the saying that "life is just one blank thing after another," must have been thinking of the light and power question in Pascagoula.

BE HAPPY TODAY

No Sense in Postponing Period of Joyousness.

Much Good Sense in Writer's Assertion That, Following the Great War, Most of Us Take Things Too Seriously.

There is not only a possibility but a probability that most of us in these stressed times are losing the fine flower and zest of life by taking life and ourselves too seriously. The mistake, for it is a mistake, is natural.

We are just emerging from a war that may or may not have been the Armageddon of prophecy, but it certainly resembled that vast gathering of the nations in its great outlines, and nations as well as individuals are still engaged, so to speak, in stock-taking after its termination. If indeed we have come to the end of it.

Some are looking forward to a new business era of unprecedented opportunity in trade and money-making; others are looking apprehensively for a still further unsettlement of the world's equilibrium incidental to the peace-making, and others still are looking for a new heaven and new earth and the dawn of millennial peace and happiness.

But all are looking to the future and putting their hopes of happiness in its keeping. All seem to have put off by general consent the attainment of happiness until tomorrow. Happiness is still a thing to come. But a thing we may and should and can receive today along the common road of everyday life. We are all too much inclined to run hither and thither wherever the loudest voice may call attention, instead of quietly pursuing the even tenor of our way, taking account of what happiness means to us individually.

We must, of course, bear manfully our part of the world's burdens, but our shoulders are not broad or strong enough to bear, like Atlas, the weight of the whole world. Especially is the summer season one that should invite us to repose, joyousness and happiness if we will but enjoy its lavish beauty and fulness of content. We should try to forget for a few weeks at least, for a few months if possible, the storm and stress and welter of the world.

The summer is nature's season of fruition, of recuperation, of enjoyment. Don't waste it in fretting and repining, but drink in its inspiration as your lungs inhale the invigorating breeze that comes over 3,000 miles of ocean. The world probably will not run off the track while you are doing this, and when you come back to your usual work you will be all the better able to help steady it in its course—Exchange.

A Link With Rousseau.

A well-known writer in Paris, M. Remy, can, if he chooses, step into Jean Jacques Rousseau's shoes—shoes, moreover, that the great genius made himself. The Paris correspondent of the London Evening Standard tells their interesting story:

In the little village of Ermenonville, where Rousseau is buried, there was an inn where he often went. Gard, the innkeeper, was an intimate friend of Rousseau, and he kept on the top of a cupboard a pair of wooden shoes that Rousseau had made. Jean Jacques, after wearing them himself, had given them to the innkeeper.

In the early days of the nineteenth century the poet Fabre d'Eglantine visited the little inn, saw the shoes with a paper label on them, and offered to buy one for £200 or to give £500 for the pair. The offer was refused.

When the innkeeper died he left the shoes to his granddaughter, and she at her death left them to her nephew, M. Paul Bieuzé, who sold them or gave them to M. Remy.

Rare Carpets Reproduced.

There is now on display in London carpets that surprise those who are unacquainted with the styles made in manufacture by British factories during the war. The carpets are claimed to be exact reproductions of rare Eastern carpets and are offered at prices not much higher than ordinary loom productions.

The most remarkable feature about them is considered to be the true rendering of that eastern luster which has hitherto defied successful copying. Some of the most notable reproductions are those of the seventeenth century coronation carpets which were made for the Shah of Persia, the Khorsassan rug and the famous carpet manufactured for the Sheikh Ismail, the original of which hangs in the Victoria and Albert museum of London, and there are copies of others from cathedrals and art galleries.

The carpets vary in size and have all been made in a British factory during the last three or four years.

The Auto Court.

County Judge Smith established a precedent in Missoula when he held a term of the county court in his automobile. Dunn Steele, an aviator, was charged with culpable carelessness in having run down an officer with his airplane at Belmont park and was held by Justice of the Peace New for the grand jury. Judge Smith was just leaving when the defendant, accompanied by A. L. Garr of a bonding company stopped him. He obligingly opened court from his automobile, arraigned the defendant, held him in $2,000 bail, signed the bond, adjourned court and sped away for Oyster Bay. —New York Sun.

Mr. H. B. Wilson will leave today for New Mexico for the benefit of his health. Mr. Wilson made numerous friends while serving Chancellor W. M. Denby as stenographer. He contracted a severe cold in a military camp which has necessitated his departure for a dry climate.

Rev. Father Rice and Rev. Father Murphy of Mobile were the guests of Rev. Father M. J. O'Neil Thursday.

Camel Cigarettes

They Win You On Quality

Your enjoyment of Camels will be very great because their refreshing flavor and fragrance and mellowness is so enticingly different. You never tasted such a cigarette! Bite is eliminated and there is a cheerful absence of any unpleasant cigarette after-taste or any unpleasant cigarette odor!

Camels are made of an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos and are smooth and mild, but have that desirable full-body and certainly hand out satisfaction in generous measure. You will prefer this Camel blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight!

Give Camels the stiffest tryout, then compare them with any cigarette in the world at any price for quality, flavor, satisfaction. No matter how liberally you smoke Camels they will not tire your taste!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO.
Winston-Salem, N. C.

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes, or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glass-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply when you travel.
